SECRETARY KELLOGG assures Senator Borah that in Nicaragua we are not taking sides with the established, shaky government, or with the vicious rebels. Our forces are only protecting American life and property.
No one questions Secretary Kellogg's absolute sincerity, and his statement is reassuring.
On the other hand, Senator Borah says:
"The revolution in Nicaragua was inspired and is fanned by eight or ten persons here, who are not even Nicaraguans."

IT IS PERHAPS none of the American people's business, but they would like to know who it is that pulls strings in a neighborly republic, making it neighborly to send our forces there. We would not let Nicaragua lead forces here. Why bully a small neighbor? We don't lead forces in Russia, you'll notice.

Tears Still Flow

As Devereaux Writes 'Ma'

A Christmas Tree Plea

Dear Ma, I hope you are well. I'm feeling all right myself. I hope you had a pleasant Christmas and I know you were surprised with the present that the kids gave you and that you will enjoy it very much. Nothing could be more appropriate. I think we received communion Christmas morning and also the morning before. I received quite a few letters.

from all over the world. Well there isn't anything more to write about at present so I'll sign off for now. Give my love to the kids. Thanks very much for your Xmas card. Give my love to the kids. Your loving son, Joe. XXX

IN LAST DITCH FIGHT Beside the Christmas tree in the Devereaux home Frank Manning, secretary of the clemency committee, typist last appeals for the three condemned slayers, due to die next week.

OLD TEARS, NOT RECENT

For many weary months the tears of Therese and William Devereaux have kept their cheeks wet. They are sister and brother of John J. Devereaux, one of doomed carnal slayers.

FILLER IS DELUGED BY CLEMENCY LETTERS

The office of Governor Fuller, both under clemency for the slayers and upholding the Governor for his refusal to commute the death sentence. At the State House it was stated that the ratio was roughly three to one in commendation of the Governor's stand as against one favoring clemency.

But by determined efforts, we will hold our meetings in private halls on Thursday and Sunday," said Manning, while waiting to see Mayor Brooks at City Hall.

"Our purpose is to let the public know that Devereaux, if executed, is dying as a man with an innocent mind, who was clearly not capable of realizing the gravity of his actions."

Taking exception to the claim of Superintendent of Public Buildings Engineer that there is no precedent for permitting such a mass meeting in Faneuil Hall, Attorney Thomas Grady, former member of the Governor's Council, called a mass today in the hall.

Intensely interested in the "carnal case" and a devotee in the school of Attorney Francis A. J. Grady, Grady notified Justice today that years ago a meeting was held in the "Cradle of Liberty" in behalf of two condemned slayers, Harry Marshall and Mrs. Cassius M. Brock, sentenced to death for the murder of a man in Seaboard.

PROMINENT MEN SPOKE. According to Grady, Mrs. Munn's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, but Marshall's life was taken. He said he revisited and the speakers included James H. Valley, prominent attorney, as well as other prominent Boston men and women.

Little hope for tangible action in the courts was held out for friends of the carnal slayers in the statement of two of the trial jurors who have, nevertheless, thrown implicit support on the case in the opinion of the clemency committee.

John Madden, Democrat, member, one of these jurors, stated that he was not aware of a second degree murder verdict could be returned by the jury. The second juror, J. Alvin Porter of Lowell, declared he believed Devereaux innocent and would not have agreed on a first degree verdict if unanimity had been introduced by the defense.

Final battle on this phase of the case may be made by Attorney Jennings who is studying the law relating to these matters.

The contention today in their office from Rev. Michael J. Murphy, Catholic Chaplain of State Prison, at their own request. Father Murphy said they were in "pretty good shape." It spent about an hour with them.

Among the letters received by Governor Fuller was that of John J. Cummings of Cummings and Cummings, Boston attorneys, who stated that the murder had occurred prior to the war, the verdict would have been in the second degree or life imprisonment, the letter read in part:

"Three lives and possibly four are being forfeited for this crime and this heinous crime was in the hands of the State of Massachusetts. No one could accuse the Governor of shirking responsibility if he commuted the sentence of these men," the letter concluded.

The Barbers International Union, Local 132, wrote the Governor stating its members all urged him to allow leniency in the case.

Far into the night the clemency committee assisted by the three-armed mother worked frantically, buoyed by hopes that their efforts would result in a series of thousands of circulars addressed to national organizations, lawyers, doctors and men well known in all walks of life were mailed.

The circular contains a summary of the case and a history of Devereaux's life. The recipients are asked to write Governor Fuller urging clemency.

Unless some irrevocable circumstance hails present plans at State Prison, the men will go to the chair some time after midnight, Monday night.

Father Murphy, upon whom devolves the duty of preparing the men spiritually for their doom, will be assisted by several priests in his duties, it was announced.

The execution has again been postponed from New York state prison and is to report at the prison early Sunday morning. In accordance with the usual custom, Warden Hendry will notify witnesses required by law when they are to come.

LOVE 'NEATH WINGS OF ANGEL OF DEATH

From his cell in Charlestown State Prison the condemned Devereaux penned this Christmas note to his mother. The stoic carnal slayer disregards his own plight as he thinks of his family, plunged into deepest grief by his act. Father, mother, brother and sisters have stood by him through thick and thin in his hour of trial.

MAN GONE WHEN LINER DOCKS

Mysterious disappearance of a passenger, who may be a Winchester man, from the steamship Lexington en route from New York when the vessel reached Providence today puzzled officials of the line and the police.

His stateroom door was found locked with the key beside after a passenger was discovered to be missing in the landing chock. A bill fold containing a Massachusetts automobile registration was on the bed. A window was open.

The automobile card indicated the passenger was Winthrop M. Foster, thirty-six of Mason street, Winchester, traveling salesman. The stateroom was engaged, however, in the name of A. B. Carney. Foster's signature was on the back of the ticket, which was left in the bill fold.

over the identity of the sunken craft. At the office of the Richard T. Green shipyards in Chelsea an estimate said that the Astoria wrecked in the Black Sea was probably the vessel of Green ownership but chartered by the Meritts Chemical Company.

Meritts Chemical Company of Tulsa said later, however, that the Astoria arrived in Porey, Cornwall, England, on December 28 and was due to sail from there today for Philadelphia with a cargo of China clay, which would preclude any chance of her being in the Black Sea.

Captain Henderson is in command of the Green company steamship and she carries a crew of thirty men.

Possibility that the supposed American steamship was not an American at all was raised after all registered vessels had been checked so early, including a former United States Shipping Board vessel in Pacific waters.

A Rochester dispatch later today said that the teacher who committed suicide was the sole survivor of the wreck in the storm. His swim ashore, but killed himself on learning that the vessel had gone beneath the waves, carrying down all but himself.

Reports from the admiral as to what transpired in connection with the landing of marines and jackets at Puerto Cabezas formed the basis of the statement made yesterday at the White House that there had been no interference with the Sacaas liberal faction leaders, as had been charged by Sacaas's representative here.

The Latimer reports say that Sacaas and his adherents come and go at will in the neutral area around American property.

BLAST KILLS R. R. WORKER

The derrick tipped over while the railroad men were using it to fit an air-compressor on to a freight car. The locomotive swung into position and men striving to adjust the truck when the "derrick engine" toppled sideways and the boom threatened to crush all of them.

With a reverberating roar, accompanied by the hissing of live steam suddenly let free, the boiler exploded a moment later and flames had no chance of escaping. Scores of other workmen in that section of the yards, known as Yard 5, were attracted by the explosion and rushed to the aid of the injured.

The cause of the accident was not determined and officials of the railroad ordered an investigation.

Helford Policemen Sullivan, on duty in the yards, took charge at the scene and brought the two injured men to the hospital.

DOHENY CASE CHARGES STIR CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 29 (A.P.)—The Pacific "war scare" that figured in the Pull-Doheny trial has come under scrutiny by the House Naval Committee.

Representative McClellan said today that Secretary Wilbur had refused to give the committee confidential navy reports bearing on the subject.

Specifically, the Oklahoma Representative disclosed, the committee had requested the navy secretary to send it in confidence a report submitted by Admiral Gleaves, while he was commander of the Asiatic fleet, dealing with "the belligerent attitude of Japan a few years ago."

The committee action was taken in secret session, during consideration of Chairman Butler's proposal to build a new fleet of light cruisers to bring American naval strength up to a satisfactory ratio with that of Great Britain and Japan.

FIGHT TO KEEP MILLS IN NORTH

REDUCTION OF STATE TAXES IS PLANNED

Custom goods manufacturers and executives have joined hands in a great, co-operative movement to keep mills in the North, according to a survey made public today by several north associations.

Consolidation offered by the North was indicated by the disclosure that every state and town in the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and Arkansas made offers to the Old Colony when it was first proposed by that corporation to move some of its machinery south and start a new plant there.

The offers it was said, included such inducements as free area, tax exemption, cheap power and labor and other conditions.

REDUCE TOWN TAXES.
However, with the announcement of the plan by the Old Colony to abandon their plant in Warr, that town is considering a reduction in the company taxes. The income tax will be asked to reduce the State tax. Employees of the company will be asked to consent to accept a wage reduction as well.

Every once in awhile we're able to buy in such quantities and in such a way that we can afford to sell the stockings at a surprisingly low price. Why, it is a reminder of "before the war" prices—while the stockings are even finer quality—just as well made and finished—with a choice of 14 new and desirable colors.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Many Members of Hub Smart Set Journeying to New York for Thayer-Pratt Wedding

TAKING "THE ONE O'CLOCK" FOR NEW

York is the program for today with a number of prominent Smart Set Bostonians of that important local coterie bidden to the nuptials of Miss Virginia Pratt and Robert H. Thayer at 4 in the afternoon of tomorrow in St. Bartholomew's Church. Mr. and Mrs. Garrie Boyden are taking the limited en route to the Big City and this most brilliant of saplings. The S. Huntington Woodruff and their debutante daughter, Miss Edith Woodruff, and James O. Bangs also embark for Gotham and the wedding festivities.

THE BOYDENS HAVE A DAUGHTER in the bridal party. She is Mrs. Edwin H. Orl, Jr., the former Harriet Boyden who was betrothed to October bride, and a very stunning one by the way. She and Mr. Orl have been spending the Christmas holidays with Mr. Orl's parents at their home in Pennsylvania, but are now in New York in preparation for the wedding. Miss Helen Mowley, also a Boston girl, daughter of the Frederick Mowley Mays, is due to be a bride attendant also. As for the other set, a brace of young Bostonians figure largely in that.

THEY ARE EDWIN SIDLEY WHESTER, Jr., Edwin Orl, Jr., Hugh Whitney, Jan & Janet, Alfred Codman, Nelson Blagden, and Elliot Perkins, a collection that will, I assure you, guarantee any staff recruited for the formal duties at dinner and reception.

The bridegroom belongs to the Southboro Thayers, to the Rev. William G. Thayer family so closely allied with St. Mark's School destined. The bride's robes are, so I'm told, rarely lovely even for the petted daughter of great wealth, and the frocks and hats and shoes of the bride's attendants are smart indeed.

THE BRIDE'S AUNT, Mrs. Harold I. Pratt, (yes, it was she who entertained the Royal Highness of Wales during that memorable Long Island visit) is

MRS. OLIVER AMES, JR.

Boston society matron is working to make the "Titania's Palace" exhibit a success.

Using the hours for the bridal party. The bride and bridegroom, their house and best man, the bridesmaids and the fourteen ushers are being very brilliantly entertained for both this evening and tomorrow evening. Mrs. Pratt gives a large dinner this evening, and after the ceremony she winds up with another dinner, to be followed by a theatre party.

THE BRIDE'S PARENTS are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pratt, of Gotham and Glen Cove, L. I. It was young Mr. John T. Pratt, Jr., whose marriage to Miss Mary Conity fifteen up at Dark Harbor internal parent, the Early of Woodstock. Their advent here coincides with and is occasioned by and sends a la to the "Titania's Palace" exhibition opening on January 1 at Faneuil.

THE WESTER TEA is but one of the many affairs for this titled trio. In fact there's a perfect flutter of cards for dinners, teas and luncheons in their honor. Mrs. Frederick S. Meade is entertaining (as a dinner, I believe), and so, practically, in every other important Bostonian. Their three weeks' stay will be replete with such occasions. And Sir Neville, the Lady Beatrice and the Earl will be the lions of the private view of the palace set for the Saturday immediately preceding the official opening, for which cards have already been sent.

"TITANIA'S PALACE" is a many-sided and rare treat. Naturally children will adore it, was set up in the Capital City; in for the building was inspired by Sir Neville's own little "Tit", and it is a perfect doll's house. Architects will admire its perfect and minute proportions; painters like miniature artists, and every one of the antique the exquisite reproductions. Then there's a truly beautiful tea garden, where tea will be served each day; three priceless doll collections to be viewed; a miniature theatre and several cases of antique glass. Mrs. "Ollie" Ames, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Bute and Mrs. Arthur M. Beale are three of the two score or more matrons to see the "Titania's Palace" exhibition as so perfect as human ingenuity can make it.

ONE OF NEW YEAR'S DAYS most delightful affairs, and happily one that has come to be an "annual" on the program, is the reception General Clarence Ransom Edwards and Mrs. Edwards give at their Westwood home, in honor of the General's birthday, which so felicitously falls on the first day of the New Year. The Edwards plan, "Dinnering," will extend a gracious hospitality to hundred or so guests. Several friends will come from Washington for the occasion. The Edwards manage for some years anniversary of the battle of Trenton and Princeton is the occasion.

consequence they have hosts of friends there. But the same holds true of course, of the various other spots where the General and Mrs. Edwards have lived during the General's long and splendid service as a high ranker in the army.

JOHN D. JR., OFFERS N. Y. $5,000,000 PARK LAND

New York, Dec. 28 (A.P.)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has offered the city of New York $5,000,000 worth of park.

COOLIDGE LEAVES FOR TRENTON ANNIVERSARY

Washington, Dec. 29 (A.P.)—President Coolidge will leave Washington early this afternoon to pay a flying holiday visit to Trenton, N. FULLER WIELDS SHOVEL TO CLEAR PATH OF SLUSH

Governor Fuller joined the shovel today in order to get to work without using a combination bust and exact stride.

Walking from his Beacon street home toward the State House the Governor arrived at River street, a block from Charles, and found it to be a tributary of the great Boston slushway that rose up all over the city when snow and ice blocked the roads.

Calling to a workman the Governor borrowed his shovel and opened up a passageway through the slush and drained off some of the water. Then he handed his

TOY GUN BOY ON PROBATION

Poor marksmanship with an air gun presented to 15-year-old Sylvia Beckman by his mother resulted in the appearance in East Boston District Court today of both suspect and donor.

Myra stepped out on the back piazza of his home in Falmouth street to try out his air gun on Christmas, and selected a pistol frame as his target.

His first shot missed the fence and struck Carmen Clarke, a playmate in the eye. Carmen was taken to the East Boston Police Station for treatment and later was sent home.

Myra was arrested charged with assault and battery, and his mother was charged with furnishing arms to a minor. Judge Barrow placed Mrs. Beckman on probation for 14 days and placed her son on probation on condition that he pay for Carmen's medical treatment.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Many Members of Hub Smart Set Journeying to New York for Thayer-Pratt Wedding

TAKING "THE ONE O'CLOCK" FOR NEW York is the program for today with a number of prominent Smart Set Bostonians of this important local society bidding to the wedding of Miss Virginia Pratt and Robert H. Thayer at 4 in the afternoon of tomorrow in St. Bartholomew's Church. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyden are taking the limited en route to the Big City and this most brilliant of socials. The S. Huntington Wolcotts and their debutante daughter, Miss Edith Wolcott, and James O. Bangs also embark for Gotham and the wedding festivities.

THE BOYDENS HAVE A DAUGHTER in the bridal party. She is Mrs. Edwin H. Oll, Jr., the former Harriet Boyden who was married on October bride, and a very stunning one, by the way. She and Mr. Oll have been spending the Christmas holidays with Mr. Oll's parents at their home in Pennsylvania, but are now in New York in preparation for the wedding. Miss Helen Mosley, also a Boston girl, daughter of the Frederick Strong Mosley, is due to be a bride attendant also. As for the other set, a brace of young Boston men figure largely in that.

THEY ARE EDWIN SIDLEY WEBSTER, Jr., Edwin Oll, Jr., Hugh Whitney, John S. Parker, Alfred Codman, Nelson Bigelow, and Elliott Perkins, a collection that will, it seems, you, ornament any staff recruited for the formal duties as chosen for reception. The bridegroom belongs to the Southboro Thayers, to the Rev. William G. Thayer, family so closely allied with the Mark's School destinies. The bride's robes are, so I'm told, rarely lovely even for the petted daughter of great wealth, and the frocks and hats and shoes of the bride's attendants are smart indeed.

THE BRIDES AUNT, Mrs. Harold L. Pratt, (yes, it was she who entertained the Royal Highness of Wales during that memorable Long Island visit) is doing the honors for the bridal party. The bride and bridegroom, their honor maid and best man, the eight bridesmaids and the fourteen ushers are being very brilliantly entertained for both this evening and tomorrow evening. Mrs. Pratt gives a large dinner this evening, and after the ceremony she intends to entertain with another dinner, to be followed by a theatre party.

MRS. OLIVER AMES, JR.

Boston society matron is working to make the "Thania's Palace" exhibit a success.

THE BRIDES PARENTS are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pratt, of Gotham and Glen Cove, L. I. It was young Mr. John T. Pratt, Jr., whose marriage to Miss Mary Christy Ribbay at Dark Harbor paternal haven, the Early of Wink laugh. Their advent here coincides with and is occasioned by and under seal to the "Thania's Palace" exhibition opening on Jan. 30 at 10 P. M.

THE WEBSTER TEA is but one of the many affairs for this titled trio. In fact there's a perfect flutter of cards for dinners, teas and luncheons in their honor. Mrs. Frederick B. Meade is entertaining (at a dinner, I believe), and, so practically, is every other important Bostonian. Their three weeks' stay will be replete with such occasions. And Sir Neville, the Lady Beatrice and the Earl will be the hosts of the private view of the palace set for the Saturday immediately preceding the official opening, for which cards have already been sent.

for the building was inspired by Sir Neville's own little girl, and it is a perfect doll's house. Architecture will admire its perfect and minute proportions; painters its miniature art works and owners of the antique its exquisite reproductions. Then there's a truly beautiful garden, where tea will be served each day; three priceless doll collections to be viewed; a miniature theatre and several cases of antique glass. Mrs. "Ollie" Ames, Arthur M. Beale are three of the two score or more matrons to see the "Thania's Palace" exhibition. It is as perfect as human ingenuity can make it.

ONE OF NEW YEAR'S DAYS most delightful affairs, and happily one that has come to be an "annual" on the program, is the reception General Clarence Hanson Edwards and Mrs. Edwards give at their Westwood home, in honor of the Governor's birthday, which so tactfully falls on the first day of the New Year. The Edwards place, "Donerivory" on the program, is the reception General Clarence Hanson Edwards and Mrs. Edwards give at their Westwood home, in honor of the Governor's birthday, which so tactfully falls on the first day of the New Year. GOLDEN ROADS by Winnifred Vain Duzer

Author of "THE GOOD BAD GIRL"

The Amazing Love Story of a Misunderstood Hub Working Girl

"There's but one wealth that brings happiness," Gay's father tells her.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Moore and her cousin, Christine Noe, are employed in the State Street house of Johnstone Baird. Gay is a typist and Christine as telephone operator. Christine loves the good things of life, her dreams being of a rich marriage with money, clothes, automobiles and luxuries her chief aim, while Gay's dreams are of love and happiness. Coming from luncheon they meet Stanley Baird, son of their employer, and his chum, Roger Pennington.

When they enter the office, Christine, feigning indifference, flirts with Pennington, while Gay builds rosy dreams around Stanley. When they are leaving for the day, Christine tells Gay that the "Miss Lady" has called the "boss."

Christine wants Gay to leave home and take an apartment in the West End. Gay refuses, for she feels she could never leave Jamie and Mary, as she calls her affectionate parents, who have also raised Christine, an orphan, as their daughter.

CHAPTER 4

JAMIE held Gay's shoulders so that she could see his face. "There's but one wealth that brings happiness," he said, "in this house, by gracious favor."

"But, Jamie," she cried, "I want to see you. I want your big girl to marry for money. I want to see you. Your big girl a somebody, with her picture in the papers and everybody kowtowing."

"Ah, don't say such things, dear. Look at me. I am no one."

Gay pressed her face into his cheek. "I was only fooling, Jamie. Sweet little Mary! I want just what she's had. Only she kissed him and jumped up, laughing. "You're not aren't any more like you."

In the evening the girls put on bathing suits and swam in the bay lake. The rowboat was old and leaky, and turned it upside down and played it was a submarine.

At 10 o'clock Jamie threw the switch that turned off the lights on Moorland.

No great wealth in the Moore home, but the warm glow of flowers and trees; the restfulness of space. And the girls of love. Gay pondered that, as she was falling asleep.

Hurry in the morning. Water splashing; Mary's coffee, steaming and fragrant; a little figure standing at a desk to tweak Jamie's hair; Mary waving from the veranda; a pink aster snatched from the garden; the white road again.

"Why, Christy, you've put on your new dress! I love that green taffeta, dear. But isn't it a wee bit fuss for the office?"

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why day in every way, my prayer, how love and hope, to behold in the distance, for a man to make him attain it.

This prominent woman, who recently refused to go to the between young men and the Holy Bible.

Some girls will never feel again happily, without a doubt, that

There is something about the "The remained them, that makes the thing seem sort of budding.

Nice Girls, No Bobs

Bobbed Girls Are ALSO Nice. It Depends on the GIRL,
Not the BOB

MEET MARY OLATZ, LUCILLE KONSHENDY AND GEORGIANNA MOCKLEY, ALL UNBOBBED

BEHOLD AND ADMIRE FLORENCE BEHLING, DOROTHY ROYH AND DOROTHY KNOELK, ALL LOVELY

The six girls in these pictures are all that are left "unbobbed" of 800 girls in Milwaukee Riverside High School. For twenty years it has been the custom to observe "Pig-Tail Day," in that school. Twenty years ago, even five years ago, almost every girl in the school had her two pig-tails, hair sometimes waving freely in the air, usually nicely braided.

These six are all that are left of the pig-tail brigade. The pig-tail mortality has been more terrible than that in the charge of the brave Six Hundred.

These are nice old-fashioned girls. Perhaps they wanted to keep their hair because they ARE old-fashioned. Perhaps they have an old-fashioned father or mother that could not imagine "my daughter with her hair cut."

Lucky the young man that later on becomes the husband and slave of any one of these six long-haired girls.

But the 794 other girls in the same school with their hair cut short are also admirable and much to be desired.

In that Milwaukee Riverside High School, the great American question, "To bob or not to bob," has been answered "yes" by 794 girls, and "NO" by these six lovely ones.

But it is the girl, the brain below the hair, the heart under the left hand pig-tail that counts.

Some good girls keep their hair LONG, many good girls wear it SHORT.

Some good girls even use rouge, powder and lipstick. It doesn't make them any less good, but it DOES make them less sensible.

Look at the beautiful expressions on the faces of these six out of EIGHT HUNDRED IN ONE American school.

And thank heaven for that public school crop that every year begins the important work of wifehood and motherhood in this blessedly lucky country.

Rays That Cause Growth

School Children Systematically Deprived of Them

A dispatch from Smithwick, England, tells of the use in schoolrooms of a special glass that allows the sunlight's ultra violet rays to pass through. Ordinary glass used in schoolrooms and elsewhere shuts out the health-giving ultra violet rays.

Dr. J. B. Ferguson, British school doctor, reports that during a nine months' test in classrooms to which the ultra violet rays were admitted, the boys grew half an inch taller and three pounds heavier than other boys in an adjoining room, lighted through ordinary glass.

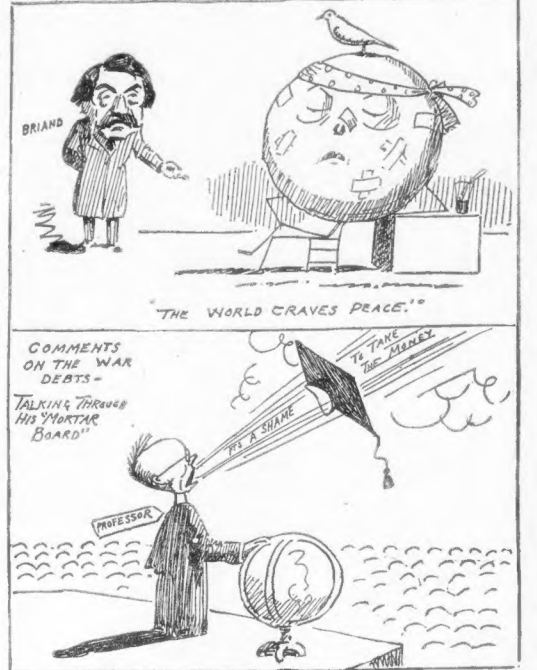

We do not know what particular kind of glass allows the ultra violet rays to pass through. But it is known that glass ordinarily used shuts them out almost completely, so that a child sitting in the sunlight INSIDE OF A GLASS WINDOW, gets practically no benefit from the sunshine.

Our school system which shuts children in rooms throughout the hours of sunlight in winter, is about as bad as it could be. If some kind of glass could be used that would counteract the evil it ought to be used.

Has It Come to This?

Uncle Sam Reported Engaged in Saloon Business for the Purpose of Catching Bootleggers

By T. E. Powers

WHY IS EVERYTHING WORTHY DREARY?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ALAN DALE, the well-known theatrical critic, said a mouthful" the other day when he wrote:

"I wonder why everything that is worthy is dreary and drab and desolate and doleful and discouraging, and everything unworthy cheerful and amiable and amusing and entertaining, and, worse still, laughable."

This wonder has come to all of us.

The writer had three children who wanted to see Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Their grandmother, being a strict religiousist, did not want them to attend. They were overheard discussing the matter and speculating as to why grandmother opposed their going. The boy said that it was because the riders were in danger of breaking their necks. One of the girls insisted that the reason was that the women wore short skirts. The other girl, however, insisted that the only reason was that it was fun, for, she said, "Whatever is fun is wrong and whatever is unpleasant is good for you."

Many another child mind and many a mind of those who are older have come about to the same conclusion. When we look over the sea of novels and plays that come to us from abroad and see how pessimistic they all are, when we look at plays that are put on for the uplift of the stage, and see how dreary they are, most of them, and when we consider works that are supposed to be great, such as the works of Dreiser and O'Neill, and see how disgusting they are and uniformly tragic, we are inclined to speculate as to why a thing has to be disagreeable to be real and why anything that is pleasant is supposed to be cheap and nasty.

For our own part we are convinced that life is not a humbug nor a tragedy. There is plenty of nobleness and good humor in the world, and literature that expresses this can be just as good as literature that expresses the contrary opinion.

Those who write encouragingly and induce people to go ahead with the hard battle of life and to keep their chin up and smile may not be great, but they are doing more to help their fellows along than those who write discouragingly.

Odds and Ends of the Town

MADE PASTOR.

ROM Smyrna, France, comes word that the REV. P. JOSEPH DOWNNEY, C. SS. R., noted Roman Catholic preacher, has been made pastor of the Sacred Heart Church there. This is the first time, says the report, the Romanists have established a church in the South under their auspices. Mr. DOWNNEY was born in the Mission Hill section of BOSTON. His sister, MARY T. DOWNNEY, is connected with the CITY PLANNING BOARD. Recently FR. DOWNNEY conducted a mission and novena at the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Roxbury.

ADDS YOUTH IDEAS.

VICTOR HEATH of Roxbury, connected with the BOARD OF TRADE in that section, entertained the pupils of the High Office School, DUDLEY STREET, with a holiday address. MAURICE J. O'BRIEN, school principal, worked out a splendid musical program, tributed by ANNA MURPHY, MAIRY P. O'BRIEN, and GAIL TRUDE E. O'BRIEN and ROSELYN B. BISHOP. MR. O'BRIEN leaves musical numbers stimulate the minds of the young.

FOR SPORTS' SAKE.

FORMER ALDERMAN THOMAS J. LYONS of WEST NEWTON is one of the greatest lovers of juvenile sports in the city. Playgrounds Commissioner, TOM is always on the alert to improve playground conditions in NEWTON. He is one of the most regular spectators at all games staged by the youngsters. MAYOR EDWIN O. CHILDS frequently delegates TOM to represent him at playground festivities.

COPYING CAL.

ADRIAN B. SMITH, clerk of the SOUTH BOSTON DISTRICT COURT, is certainly practicing economy these days. Copying courts are using up-to-date machinery. CLERK SMITH is using stationary issued in 1920. Possibly the only person who is using stationary on the alert to improve changes in the wording, names of judges, clerks.

"I'll be glad when the stationery runs out," said DAVID. "Every once in a while I get this ancient stationery and it takes me an hour to make a paper out."

CHEERS THEM UP.

The life of an undertaker hardly seems to be the background to develop a high grade sense of humor in the matter of amusement, but FREDERICK A. FRYER, ALBUQUERQUE, past commander of the NEWTON LEGION seems to be an exception. When the LEGION, the BLENCHING, and the CORPUS CHRISTI or any other organization of which TOM is a member sets out to stage an entertainment, invariably his name is alive on the entertainment committee.

STICKS.

With 61 years of service to his credit, FREDERICK A. FRYER, DOWNNEY, attached to SUPERINTENDENT MICHAEL H. CROW, being a veteran of the Civil War, has been elected to the position of provisions of the law governing police officers.

LISTEN, WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

BELIEVE IN MYSELF.

I do not mean I am satisfied or pleased with myself. I am well aware how far short I fall of that which I would wish to be. I know that I have a not temper, a silly egotism, that I am often selfish, unfair, lazy, cowardly and dishonest. And I have no doubt that I have many other faults which I do not know. Yet, in spite of all this I believe that this mysterious self of mine, of which I know so little and which I have so misused, is a very important piece of creation. I think the true nature is noble and strong and beautiful. I think that a great mission—a mission which only I can perform. I think that the power which made it expects great things of myself, and that even the smallest act which I commit has deep significance.

So I believe in myself. I BELIEVE IN OTHER PEOPLE.

I do not always act as if I believed in them, however. I spend a great deal of time criticizing them. They are stupid, untrustworthy, I get angry with them and quarrel with them and laugh at them. But in my secret heart, I believe in them.

I think they're intensely important and interesting. I feel sure that they are not stupid at all through any more than I am stupid at all through. I think that they are capable of doing stupider things than I am capable of doing such things.

Fire Beneath.

But I believe that honor dwells in them, and love and courage. I believe this because I have seen such amazing flashes of loveliness in the ugliest people. Like sparks of flame through a thick bed of ash, how could a flame burst through unless there was a fire beneath? I am sure there is a fire beneath all the ash and dirt and mud of the world. And I believe that the fire which not even the grime of this world can smother.

BELIEVE IN LIFE.

I know that life seems harsh and unfair, even the wisest and the best of us are filled with fear and hate from the day we enter this world until the day we die. We pass through a long and cruel journey of cruelty. And the cruelty which we harbor in our souls.

Nor do things seem to be growing very much better. Certain outward circumstances have improved but it is doubtful if there is any less pain in the world than there was ten years ago. And yet I believe in life. I believe that life has a splendid purpose. I believe

Humanity in Long Treks

By Garrett P. Servis,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

If, as the majority of savants believe, Asia was the birthplace and original home of the first efficient humans, from which they migrated to adjacent continents, a peculiar and independent route was found for the peopling of America.

If you look at a map of the Arctic region, or the northern end of a globe, you are struck by the remarkable route out toward the entrance of Asia and North America, until their stretched fingers almost clasp, between Alaska and Kamchatka, Bering Strait, less than 60 miles wide, alone separates them.

From points but little elevated above sea level, the two great continents, which represent the opposite poles of human development, can plainly see one another's shores.

Halfway between the Prime Meridian and the East Cape of Siberia, the two little rocky islands, the Komandors, inhabited by a few people who may be the descendants of the very first human beings who crossed from the "old world" to the "new world."

These people, and others resembling them, who live in different far-flung islands, and on the two opposite mainland, make nothing of crossing between Asia and America in their simple skin-boats, when the sea is calm and around the strait is as smooth as glass, and the sky blue and cloudless.

In a few hours of easy navigation, they descend the vast breadth of the mighty Pacific, which shows the nearly meeting continents 6,000 miles apart as it expands southward.

But for one great circumstance the Alaska-Kamchatka route would be the chief of all highways between the Eastern and Western halves of the globe. That circumstance is the fact that the route, below a couple of feet, to which the effects of the solar rays generate at certain times of the year, the soil is extremely fertile.

It is a fact that the route, below a couple of feet, to which the effects of the solar rays generate at certain times of the year, the soil is extremely fertile.
